A Badger Story

The groundhog is the American badger. He stores away in his house enough corn, &c. to last all winter, and though the most popular tradition is that he peeps out on groundhog day and if the sun shines, goes back again for six weeks. The truth is, he stays in his den, and sleeps and dreams until his winter stores are all gone. If the corn crop of the pret year was good, and dogs did not trouble him whilst gathering his rations, he would not wake up until June or July. Now having told you this much about the badger, I will begin my story.

In the fail of the year, some time ago, I had a little dog named "Rag." He was not bigger than a cat, if as big, but he thought he was so big as "all cut of doors." I ock him one day into the mountain, which pleased him so that he looked all around, and select the little was some abole in the proposed dashed into and resing a hole in the ground dashed into it to find out who lived there. I heard Rag how ing but could not get to him. At les Rag came out with the groundhog sticking to him and playing colence after the John

L Soliton order.

The dog was mighty solemn that day, but in a day or two he stell back and tried it. in a day or two he stole back and tried it again. I surely felt serry for "Rag"—it preyed on his mind. Day after day he tried the same thing; always the same result, and I thought the dog had "cut off more than he could chaw" so I went, one day when I knew he was 'at i," to help "Rag." When I got there, it was up and down between the badger and the dog. I was so excited I could not tell one from the other, and I threw a rock, that, instead of hitting the badger, hit Rag on the ieg and that is the reason Rag can that time. That dog the reason Rag ran that time. That dog went out the very next day by himself to try it again and would not let me know, even, that he was going. That day he fought the fight to a fluish, dragged the dead badger home with him, laid him on the porch and barked until I came out, and with an air of triumph that Casar would have envied, he displayed his "polis opioia." BEE BEE.

Markbam, Va., April 14th, '91. AN ENGINEER TAUGHT BY AN INSECT.-It has been said that the operations of the spider suggested the arts of spinning and weaving to man. That may be doubtful, but it is quite certain that to a hint from an insect was due the invention of a machine instrumental in accomplishing one of the most stupendous works of modern times-the ex cavation of the Thames tunnel. Mark Isambard Brunel, the great engineer, was standing one day, about three-quarters of a ship-vard century ago, in a ship-yard watching the movements of an animal known as the Te redo Navales-in English the naval wood-worm-when a brilliant thought suddenly occurred to him. He saw that this creature bored its way into the piece of wood upon which it was operating by means of a very extraordinary mechanical apparatus. Look ing at the animal attentively through a microscope he foud that it was covered in front with a pair of valvu'ar shells; that, with its foot as a purchase, it communicated a rotary motion and a forward impulse to the valve which, acting upon the wood like a gim'et, penetrated its substance; and that as the particles of wood were loosened they passed through a fi-sure in the foot and thence through the body of the borer to its mouth, where they were expelled. "Here," said Brunel, to himself, "is the sort of thing I want. Can I reproduce it in an artificial form ?' He forthwith set to work, and the final result of his labors, after many failures. was the famous boring shield with which the Thames tunnel was excavated. Tois story was told by Brunel himself, and there is no reason to doubt its truth. The keep ob

Take Simmons Liver Regulator One Dose

Dear S. L. B.—Friends: I consider one dose of Simmons Liver Regulator worth $100. I was constipated, had headache, could cat nothing with satisfaction or appetite; had the blues and felt altogether out of sorts. I resorted to blue mass, calcurel, quinine and all remedies sugges ed, but only obtained temporary relief. One dose of S. L. R. did me more good than the $100 worth of doctors and dectoring. Respectfully. and dectoring. Respectfully, T, C. MARKLEY.

I have been a tracher for twenty years, and during that time have had repeated attacks of headache, produced by torpid liver, and I have been entirely cured by the use of Simmons I iver Regulator. I found it to be of so mild a character in its action as not to interfere, in the least, with my duties in the school room. To these similarly situated and subject to same, I cannot too highly recommend Simmons Liver Legulator. E.A. CHEEK, Campbellsville, Ky.
